

DRIVER CAUGHT UNDER WAGON

Runaway Rig Overturned as Result of Rough Condition of Streets

As the result of a runaway accident about noon yesterday, in which he narrowly escaped death, Robert Ormon, a teamster of 777 East Fourth South street, is at the L. D. S. hospital, suffering from internal injuries and temporary paralysis of the lower limbs. Ormon is 58 years old and has a wife and three children.

At the time of the runaway he was hauling a load of cement from the Portland Cement works to Eighth East street. Near Eighth South and Third West streets the truck horses took fright and ran away. As the vehicle jolted over the rough places in the street, the cement with which it was loaded shifted to one side, causing the truck to overturn at the corner of Eighth South and Third West. Ormon was caught under the frame of the vehicle, narrowly escaping being buried under nearly three tons of cement which were piled in the street.

Ormon was picked from under the wreck and hurried to the emergency hospital at police headquarters. After he had received treatment there he was taken to the L. D. S. hospital. The temporary paralysis of Ormon's legs was caused by an injury to his spine in the fall from his seat on the truck.

Dr. Benedict, who attended him, was unable to say last night whether the injury would prove serious or not.

PRESENT AT HAUN'S MILL.

Mrs. Oberencia H. Stalker Saw Striking Times in Early Days.

Many friends were present at the funeral services for Mrs. Oberencia H. Stalker, the wife of Alexander Stalker, which were held at the family residence, 216 South Fifth East street, yesterday forenoon, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Stalker's body was shipped to Richmond, in Cache county, yesterday afternoon, where burial will take place.

Mrs. Stalker was 74 years of age at the time of her death. She was among those who went through the trying experiences at Haun's Mill, in Missouri.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Cost Nothing to Try.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and impurifies the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics, in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but a few cents, and are available in all drug stores, and, although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

TWO FIRES END LUCKILY

Alcohol Ignited in Drug Store Basement—Boiling Paint Is Suddenly Ablaze.

A boy's mistake in striking a match in going into the cellar for alcohol caused a small blaze at W. L. Weiner's drug store yesterday afternoon. The ignited match ignited the alcohol and for a short time things looked serious. The boy, whose face was scorched, ran from the cellar. An alarm of fire was turned in, the smoke from the burning causing the impression that the building was in danger. When the firemen reached the place they found that the fire was out. Some woodwork in the cellar was scorched, but the burning alcohol had died out without igniting anything.

While G. W. Dawson was boiling paint on the third floor of 85 Pierpont street, yesterday afternoon, the paint became ignited, setting fire to the wall paper. Seizing the burning pot, Mr. Dawson hurled it from a window. It landed upon the roof of an adjoining house, but luckily did not set the roof ablaze. When the fire department arrived the burning wall paper had already been extinguished.

REMINDER OF DAY IN JUNE

Nothing More Rare Than the Kind of Weather Salt Lake Enjoys—Cold in New England.

The poet who wrote about the rare day in June manifestly never saw the rare day in February in Salt Lake. Yesterday's weather was ideal; it is not too much to say that it was a perfect winter's day. The sun shone brightly, the streets were dry and altogether it reminded one of a day in spring rather than one in midwinter. The lowest temperature recorded was 28 above, and the highest 41, but the temperature hugged the high point. The mild weather continued throughout the evening, and the promise is that it will be fair again today. The people were not slow to take advantage of the favorable conditions, and the streets were thronged with crowds of shoppers.

But the good fortune that was visited upon Salt Lake in the way of weather was markedly lacking in the good old New England states. The station at Northfield, Vt., reported a minimum temperature of 36 degrees below, and a maximum of 6 below. It was 2 below in Boston. New York state had zero weather and below. In the city of New York itself the record for cold was zero with a maximum of 16 above, at Buffalo the boldest was 8 below with 4 above. Scranton, Pa., 8 below with 4 above. Calgary, away up north, had a cold record of 14 below, which was offset by 6 above; Sault Ste. Marie showed 2 below with 4 above. In Montana, Miles City had zero weather and Helena's lowest was 16 above.

There was rain or snow throughout a large section of the country. The largest amount of precipitation reported was at Cairo, Ill., where 1.20 inches fell. Moorhead had nearly an inch, Little Rock, 62; Winnipeg, 49; Victoria, 48; Omaha, 40; North Platte, 38; Cincinnati, 36, and so on through a long list, indicating that the storm king is busy at a good many places outside of Salt Lake and Utah. The weather bureau has this to say about weather conditions yesterday: "The high pressure from the Pacific has advanced eastward to the middle plateau attended by fair weather and lower temperature. High pressure was also central over the British Northwest Territory and New England, causing temperatures of zero to 34 degrees below over a portion of those districts. The storm over this section at the time of the last report has moved eastward to the middle Mississippi valley and the lake region, accompanied by rain or snow and high winds. Another storm was reported over the north Pacific, causing rainfall over the middle and north Pacific states. The high pressure over this section will cause continued fair weather in this vicinity tonight and Thursday."

The meteorological report for the day is: "Temperature at 6 p. m., 40 degrees; maximum temperature, 41 degrees; minimum temperature, 28 degrees; mean temperature, 34 degrees, which is 3 degrees above normal. Total deficiency of temperature since the first of the month, 11 degrees; accumulated excess of temperature since Jan. 1, 65 degrees. Total precipitation, none; total precipitation since the first of the month, .16 inch, which is .15 inch below normal; accumulated deficiency since Jan. 1, .33 inch. Relative humidity at 6 p. m., 41 per cent."

Let Common Sense decide.

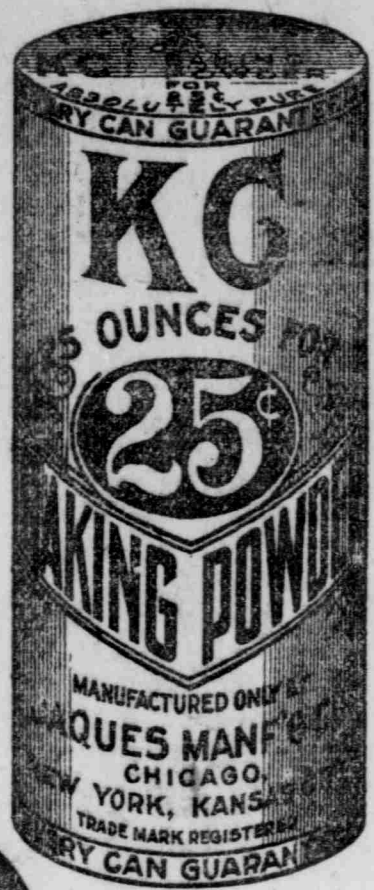

If the little sharp aches, the shortness of breath, the dull, mental condition, disappear when coffee is discontinued, there's no need of any argument.

Then when all these functions begin to run smoothly, nerves steady, brain clear, appetite natural as a result of drinking Postum in place of the drug-bearing coffee, common sense will decide where comfort is.
